QUESTION 3

A merchant has two country sites, US and France. The Site Base URL for the US site is www.example.com. They plan to use a subfolder to differentiate the French site\\'s URL. For example, they could set it to www.example.com/france. What is a potential consequence of using the fr locate code as the subfolder for the French site\\'s URL, such as www.example.com/fr, instead?

A. Commerce Cloud does not understand locale codes when used as a subfolder, leading to 404 not found messages in the shopper browser.

B. If the US site is configured to have French as an additional language, the system cannot tell if www.example.com/fr is the French site or the French translation of the English site.

C. Commerce Cloud has logic built in to avoid any confusion between subfolders and locales, editing the URL when generating the page to differentiate between the locale and the subfolder name.

D. You receive an error message on the Settings page when setting the Site Base URL to a recognized locale, preventing you from using it as the subfolder.

Correct Answer: D
